

The town has become sombre because one of the locals was killed last night in a car crash. He was pissed and tried to drive down the mountain. I was really feeling like a drink so I went to the Castle with Christian, the new South African waiter. He is a really nice guy but when he got a few drinks under him he started reliving experiences from his time in the army. He had to fight in Angola after high school. He started the sentence with, "Martin, Have you ever seen someone decapitated in front of you? ...."

Martin Smith

A few drinks under him, 2009

47 x 70cm

Pigment print (unique edition)

Price (including GST): $3,300

Prices are quoted in Australian Dollars ($AUD), and are subject to change. The price quoted above is valid for 30 days from the date of this correspondence